When Lizzy breaks her ankle and Eric has the flu
 Your guests are dropping off like flies; you don't know what to do
 The fire alarm goes off whenever someone starts to play
 You know you've set your con against St. Murphy's Holiiday.

St. Murphy's Day is a traveling feast
 You never know when it will be
 But you find it's here when you spill the yeast
 And the the cat's stuck up that tree
 So honor the saint with brave good cheer and lift your voice in song
 You'll know that good St. Murphy's here
 When everything goes wrong.

Your code is misbehaving like a sulky prima donna
 (up)And your browser's wandered off to browse and won't go where you wanna
 The fan is making noises as the temperature grows higher
 (up)And now the server's halted and you fear it may catch fire

St. Murphy's Day wanders where it will
 You find it when it arrives
 So celebrate, laugh, and pay the bill,
 And occasionally run for your lives!
 Honor the saint with fun and song—
 There's not much else you can do
 For when everything goes absurdly wrong
 You know he's laughing at you!

^{Am} You have to land this freighter but you're ^{Em} still not certain where;
^{Am} The passengers are fighting and there's ^{Em} feathers in the air.
^{Am} You need repairs and coffee and this trip's been far too long,
^{Am} So pray to good St. Murphy and then ^{Em} write a silly song! ^{Am} ^{Em} ^{Am} ^{Am} ^G ^{Am}

^C St. Murphy's Day is a feast chaotic
^F ^C ^{G7} ^C
 Expect to come unglued

 But though the saint is a bit despotic
^F ^C ^{G6}
 He won't leave you totally screwed.

 So don your brightest and laugh and swear—

 You know that you'll make it through
^C
 And be left with a thousand tales to share—

 Some of them even true.
